ABC SUSPENDS LIQUOR LICENSE OF HIDDEN VALLEY GOLF CLUB IN NORCO

Norco – The California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control today suspended the liquor license of the Hidden Valley Golf Club located at 10 Club House Drive in Norco, California for 30 days. The suspension carries with it a three-year stayed revocation meaning that if any similar violations occur during the next three years the club could lose its license. The decision follows a lengthy investigation dating back to May, 2002.

A 16 count accusation was filed against the club for a “disorderly house” involving multiple charges of lewd conduct. The violations occurred during May and June of 2002 when “adult oriented” golf tournaments were held at the club.

As a result of the investigation, the club will not be allowed to sell or serve alcohol for the next 30 days and if any similar violations occur during the next three years then the license could be revoked.

ABC worked closely with the Riverside County Sheriff’s Department during the investigation. The Sheriff’s Department arrested two managers of the club who both pled guilty to conspiracy to commit acts injurious to public morals.
